NOTICE

Regulation Regarding Students Leaving the Classroom During Class Hours

It has been observed that some students seek permission to leave the classroom during class hours, particularly to go to the washroom. Such requests have, in several instances, resulted in misuse of the permission and have occasionally been associated with activities that are not conducive to the academic environment of the University.

As students are provided with a five-minute break after each period, they are expected to make appropriate use of this break for personal needs, including using the washroom.

Therefore, all faculty members are requested not to permit students to leave the classroom to go to the washroom during the class. Students should be advised to use the washroom during the scheduled break between periods.

However, in genuine cases of medical or other unavoidable necessity, faculty members may exercise appropriate discretion.

All faculty members are requested to implement this instruction consistently in the interest of maintaining discipline, academic seriousness, and a conducive learning environment.
